The War on Imhoff Plant.

John R. Hardin of the law firm of Pitney, Hardin & Skinner has been chosen as the legal adviser in the fight against the location by Montclair and East Orange of an Imhoff sewage disposal plant on territory of this town and Belleville. The selection of Mr. Hardin was made at a meeting of the joint committee of council and Health Board members of this town, Belleville and Nutley, held in Belleville Wednesday night. Edward Q. Keady was chosen as associate to Mr. Hardin.

Richard W. Booth of Nutley, Henry McCormick of Belleville and William A. Ritscher, Jr., of this town were named by Mayor Hauser, who presided, as a committee to confer with the lawyers selected.

A legislative committee was also appointed, consisting of Mayor Dennison and Dr. Herbert Vail of Belleville, Mayor Lux and Joseph L. Miller of Nutley and J. J. Thompson and L. S. Harrison of this town. One duty of the legislative committee will be to look out for jokers in bills before the Legislature. This committee may also bring about the introduction of a bill at the next session of the lawmakers to provide against any municipality locating a sewage disposal plant in any other municipality without the permission of the latter.

Ernest G. Weischedel of Nutley said he did not think any of the three towns interested would haggle over the expense incurred in the fight.

Mayor Hauser ventured the opinion that the three towns would be put to less expense than at first believed, as he thought that Montclair would find itself compelled to put into effect its schemes without the aid of the Oranges. He had been led to believe that Orange would join in the trunk sewer project. East Orange, he added, would not enter into the Imhoff scheme upon the basis of ratables and Montclair would not let it in on the basis of sewage. However, he added, we don't want to rest upon our cars. We want to be moving, for we can't never tell what's going to happen.

The invitation of Mayor Lux of Nutley to have the committee hold its next meeting in that town was accepted.

Next Guild Lecture.

Monday evening next the First Church Guild will resume its series of entertainments after a rest for the holidays and the entertainers will be Mr. John Kendrick Bangs, whose subject will be "Salubrities I Have Met." This lecture is a lively running talk about the more or less famous men and women he has known in the course of his career. It includes gossip anecdotes of statesmen, poets, novelists, philanthropists and others and closes with an exquisite presentation of the character of the greatest of salubrities in a story entitled "A Strenuous Day at Oyster Bay," of which a critic has said: "It is a gem of kindly humor, than which nothing more continuously funny has been produced in American literature."

Mr. Bangs is one of the most prolific of writers, is the inventor of The Genial Idiot and the discoverer of A House Boat on the Styx. The author of nearly fifty volumes of humorous prose and verse he has found time even in a period of such productivity to devote a deal of energy to other things than writing, and has been in turn managing editor of Life, editor of the departments of humor for Harper & Bros., editor of Literature, editor of Harper's Weekly and of the Metropolitan Magazine. He is a keen student of men and events and some of his witty sayings carry barbs for those who are not so self-satisfied that they are blind to their short comings.

Mr. Robert Mackay, writing in Success, said: "Sometimes I wish it could be possible for every man and woman to have a little talk with John Kendrick Bangs. It would do them good. There is too little stress laid on the necessity of humor as a factor of every day life. The home often loses some of its brightest hours because there is nothing in it to supply genuine laughter. Care is taken, the place of smiles, petty worries drive sentiment a begging and troubles are allowed to stand in bold array where pleasure longs to be king; and all because there are human beings who fail to comprehend the value of a smile."

If you hear Mr. Bangs lecture you will not smile—you will laugh.

Dr. Mabie's Lecture.

"Modern American Drama" was the subject of a lecture by Dr. Hamilton Wright Mabie, author and editor, before the Women's Club of Glen Ridge in the parlors of the Congregational Church Tuesday afternoon.

The first vital movement for the modern drama, Dr. Mabie declared, was started by Bronson Howard, whose plays, he asserted, were American to the core, and possessed a presence of quiet authority and a spirit of elusive comedy.

Dr. Mabie referred to the late Clyde Fitch as a "master of stage effects and a victim of ingenuity." The speaker quoted from Shakespeare, Chaucer and other early dramatists, as the close of the lecture refreshments were served by the English literature department as a "Christmas party."

Mrs. George E. Brown, Jr., director of the English literature department of the club, introduced Dr. Mabie. There was music by Mrs. J. C. Van Dyne, soprano, and Mrs. J. Willis Pierson, pianist.
